The Commissioners and public offices can supply info to Ohio Checkbook for public viewing. A virtual demo can be done to show how it works. The tool is there to use and will help to reduce record requests. Putnam County's system is not accessible for this info. OMAP was explained as a financing tool. An entity/district can use the Ohio Treasurer's credit rating for financing. Putnam County has other entities using their credit rating for financing already and there are funds set aside for capital improvements. The Commissioners will share this with the trustees and mayors. Stable accounts were also presented they are similar to a 529 account for a student but for someone with a disability. The money can be used for everyday living expenses for the disabled person. There is a direct deposit option The disability must have occurred before the age of 26. This cannot be set up for someone to use as they age. Commissioner Lammers brought up STAR Ohio and the asset allocation. The condition of the stock market was discussed.

Beth said they are glad to get back to normal, trainings have been held and the school programming has resumed. Jason said there was a shift in the 4-H projects but enrollment was good. The sale was flat or under, with the changes of selling by family. The Commissioners asked for an opinion on the building. Jason said 4-H enrollment has held steady 750-800. The number of eligible kids to enroll has increased but the enrollment has not increased. The animal projects have held steady. The kids are taking more animal projects than home ec projects. Beth said the building can be used for the judging events that are now held at Kalida School and the K of C Hall. The space for the fairbooths will have to be reviewed. Jason explained materials used in Hancock County similar to cubicle walls that can be moved around. The clubs put deposits down to cover any damages to the panels. No staples or nails can be used. The Grandstand upgrade was also brought up. Upgrading the barns was also brought up. Jason said the feasibility study for the fund raising is a good idea. The vision is good. Jason & Beth have not been involved in the new barn building discussions. Multiple show rings may be needed since multiple shows go on at once at the fair now. The Commissioners are starting with acquiring the land across the road. One that is complete then they will look at the placement of the buildings. The Commissioners are still concerned about the mega barn use and sustainability. The budget figures were brought up. Dale Ricker is retiring and his position will not be re-filled. The budget figures were reviewed with projected expenses. There were some changes to the salary and fringe lines, supplies and postage expense have stayed the same. The travel expenses will come back up to prior to pandemic level. One of the office staff will be retiring at the end of the year so a payout of sick time will be coming.
